Club History

Prince Alfred Old Collegians Rugby Club was founded in 1937 and reformed and renamed as Old Collegians Rugby Club in 1945 after the suspension of the competition during World War II. Originally, the club’s players had to be old scholars of private schools and universities, or officers of His Majesty’s Services. When SA Rugby policies changed, membership was opened more broadly. The original jersey was maroon with a Prince Alfred College crest; it evolved to maroon and navy hoops in 1955, red and blue hoops in the 70’s, and the current blue with red stripes in the 90s.

Old Collegians first home-ground was in the centre of Victoria Park racecourse. It then moved to the dairy cow grazed pastures of the south parklands; many a tackle had an excremental bow wave. Tregenza Oval became home in 1953. It had a six metres slope from end to end, and poor drainage. Some thought the excrement preferable. The small, green, iron changing shed was well known for its lack of reliable hot showers. Thanks to building and fundraising efforts which epitomise the commitment members have always put into the club, the clubhouse was opened in 1972 and the change rooms in 1977. The traditions of rugby were enhanced by the communal spa bath in the change rooms, but use ceased in the 90s due to tightening health regulations and it was eventually replaced with more showers.

Old Collegians has a proud culture of inclusion, consistently maintaining a full complement of senior teams, juniors since the 80s, and a women’s team since 1996. A family club, it now boasts second, third and fourth generations of players in some families. Since the women’s team became an influence, it also has many children with two rugby-playing parents. Since the 90s, the club has been blessed to watch junior players progress to seniors, securing the future of its ranks. It has also thrived by assimilating “blow-ins” from as far afield as Argentina, England, Scotland, South Africa, New Zealand and Wales.

Old Collegians has a successful history on the pitch, winning First Grade premierships in 1956, 1959, 1967, 1970, 1971, 1982, 1991, 1998, 2001 and 2006 and the West End Trophy for Best Club for the last eight years it was presented (2001 to 2008). It has had countless state representatives, and the Don Smith Medal for SA’s Best & Fairest has been won by Len Perkins (1946), R Barker (1961), Rod Hauser (1972, 1973), Sean Beaton (1982, 1985), Gavin Pfister (1997) and Andy Farquharson (2006). Old Collegians has some world class players amongst its far-flung sons, such as Rod Hauser (Wallabies), Gavin Pfister (London Irish, Stormers & Ulster), Brock James (Australian 7s, Australian U19s & U20s, Western Force, Clermont-Auvergne), Alex Rokobaro (Stade Français, Melbourne Rebels) and Liam Gill (Australian Schoolboys & U20s, Australian 7s and Queensland Reds).

Over the past 75 years Old Collegians is a club which has enjoyed the full spirit of rugby both on and off the pitch. Long may it prosper.
